COLBY IS SELECTED FOR SECRETARY OF STATE

McDONOUGH READY TO ARREST FEDERAL DRY OFFICERS

STATE'S ATTORNEY HAS HUNDRED PICKED MEN TO CARRY OUT ORDER.

DELAYS WARRANTS

Warns Dalrymple That Papers Are Ready to Be Served in Case of Need.

(By Associated Press.)

Iron River, Mich., Feb. 25.—Warning that he was prepared to arrest every United States prohibition agent in the county was issued today by State's Attorney M. S. McDonough in the Iron county prohibition dispute. He said he has arranged for one hundred picked men to carry out his orders.

McDonough called on Major A. V. Dalrymple, federal prohibition director for the Central States, to tell him that if any attempt was made to arrest any one in Iron county or to raid any private home, he would arrest the federal agents immediately.

His statement about the 100 picked men was made to newspapermen. He said a warrant has been issued for the arrest of Major Dalrymple who arrived last night to press his prohibition suit. This, he said, was in the hands of Chief of Police Sensabaugh of Iron River to whom he has given orders to delay the warrant until further developments.

Major Dalrymple was told today to discontinue his expedition in Iron River. The message was received from prohibition commissioner Kramm of Washington. It advised the major that "Attorney General Palmer has ordered an investigation of the affair in Michigan. The message was received at noon. It instructed Dalrymple to meet District Attorney Walker and cooperate with him."

When apprised of the visit of Mr. Gaylord, deputy prohibition commissioner to this county, Major Dalrymple said he would not change his plan to leave tonight for Chicago as he will "be through here by that time." The major plans to ask Attorney General Palmer to remove him from Cedar Rapids, Ia., but not as a prisoner.

Roper Orders Inquiry.

Washington, Feb. 25.—A complete investigation of the controversy in Iron county will be made by the attorney general, it was announced today.

Mr. Gaylord, deputy prohibition commissioner, will leave tonight for Cedar Rapids and will not return until after the controversy which led Dalrymple to declare the county in "open revolt."

Mr. Roper said that the importance of Mr. Gaylord's visit should not be exaggerated. He had been instructed to make a tour of the central district for other purposes and his itinerary was enlarged in order to permit the bureau to obtain first hand information on the case in Michigan.

Mr. Roper said that he would be able to iron out the tangle without serious consequences. Mr. Gaylord will confer with Assistant Attorney General Tamm with respect to the department of justice attitude.

COUNCIL GIVES $400 TO AID GUARD UNIT; AID, HORN VOTES 'NO'

"What do we want a military company for—to shoot us down?" This was the question of Ald. E. Horn, chairman of the First ward, to the council last night of the proposal for the council to give $400 to the Janesville National Guard unit.

The resolution, championed by Ald. W. J. Tilt of the Fourth ward, was passed 5 to 1. Ald. L. J. Cronin was the only councilman to cast a "No" vote. Ald. L. J. Cronin was absent. It came out in the discussion that for the past two years the city has appropriated $400 annually toward the support of Company G, local state guard outfit, on the grounds that it promoted high school military training. The funds being disbanded and the change of the leading military company from state to national guard was a new item for city officials.

Taking up the matter with the adjutant-general's office at Madison, Ald. Cronin said he would find the city could give the money under that section which provides for an appropriation of $500 for the maintenance of the city of July celebrations. The $400 was appropriated last night for services which would be rendered by the guard on independence day.

Democratic Senators in Serious Predicament

(Copyright 1920 by Janesville Gazette.)
BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington, Feb. 25.—Stories of a serious revolt among the democrats in the senate against the leadership of President Wilson on the peace treaty are exaggerated. Eight or nine democratic senators are ready to surrender to Senator Lodge and the republican reservationists on article ten but that would not be enough to bring about a ratification of the peace treaty. The movement is not organized and has not the sanction of either Senator Hitchcock or Senator Underwood, the republican leaders in the senate. Nor is it likely to do anything more than to embarrass the democrats for it has acted like a danger signal.

WILSON CHOOSES EX - ROOSEVELTIAN FOR LANSING'S POST

APPOINTMENT OF FORMER PROGRESSIVE LEADER IS SURPRISE.

IS DEMOCRAT NOW

Break in Political Affiliation Made During Hughes Campaign.

(By Associated Press.)
Washington, Feb. 25.—Bainbridge Colby, New York, who was one of the leaders in the progressive party under Theodore Roosevelt, will succeed Robert Lansing as secretary of state. Announcement of his selection by President Wilson was made today at the White House.

The selection of Mr. Colby came as a surprise, most officials assuming Frank L. Polk, acting secretary, would be the president's choice.

This is not the first office Mr. Colby has held under the president's administration. He was appointed a member of the shipping board and the emergency fleet corporation in July, 1917, and also was a member of the American mission to the inter-allied shipping conference at Paris in the same year. He retired from the shipping board more than a year ago.

Mr. Colby was a life-long republican until the famous Bull Moose bolt at the Chicago convention in 1912. He had been actively identified with the candidacy of Theodore Roosevelt for the republican nomination for president that year and was in charge of contests to seat the Roosevelt delegates in the Chicago convention.

Active Progressive Leader
When Col. Roosevelt bolted the convention, Mr. Colby helped to found the progressive party and was a delegate to its Chicago convention in 1912. He continued an active leader in the party and in 1914 and again in 1916 he was a progressive candidate for senator from New York state.

When Col. Roosevelt threw the weight of his influence to Charles Evans Hughes in the 1916 presidential race, Mr. Colby identified himself with the democratic party. Mr. Colby was a member of the 51 years ago, and was graduated from Williams College, Mass. He spent one year at the Columbia Law School and practiced law in New York since 1892. He was a member of the New York assembly in 1901-02.

Mr. Colby said that pending consideration of his nomination by the senate he did not desire to make statements.

FOUR HOWITZERS MAY BE SECURED FOR PARKS HERE

Four large howitzers, of the type used by the United States army in the recent war, will grace some of Janesville's public parks this summer if Congressman Clifford E. Randall is successful in carrying out his proposal made to Mayor T. E. Welsh by telegram yesterday. The cannons are to be furnished by the government, costing the city nothing but the freight on them from the arsenal at Rock Island, Ill.

The telegram sent to the mayor by this district's representative in the lower house of congress was read to the council last night with the result that a resolution to pay the freight on them was passed unanimously. Although Mr. Randall said he "probably would be able to secure them for Janesville," the councilmen feel sure they will be shipped here in the near future.

Weapons Six Feet Long. Acceptance of the proposal together with thanks for his interest in the city was wired to Mr. Randall by the city clerk after the meeting.

The howitzers are described as being of the 4.7 inch type, six feet long, mounted and weighing 1,100 pounds. The Rock house park has been suggested as a location for at least one of them.

Madame Says America Misunderstands France

BY BEC O'BRIEN

Madame L. Chouliou, Paris, who really prefers the "little states like Janesville" to the large states like Chicago, where as she fittingly puts it, one feels so small, so like nobody, leaves Janesville tonight for Winnipeg, Can., after spending a few days with her "adopted son," P. E. Cavette, Samson Tractor company.

Madame is a delightful person to interview. She speaks English beautifully, is animated in her explanation of how the French people have been misunderstood in their relations with the American soldiers. She cannot understand why the morals of France should be judged by the chance acquaintances made on the streets. Madame Chouliou is sure that those Americans who were looking for the right sort of people met them. She told of the exclusive social organizations among the French people which introduced the Americans into the best society of the country. The French homes were thrown open and every opportunity to entertain the American soldiers was seized. No other soldiers during the entire war, Madame says, were so royally entertained as the Americans. But like so many other things we hear only of the existing conditions which she believes are to be found in every country. Many French girls came over on the same ship with Madame Chouliou but they were detained until marriage licenses could be produced for each. She favors this as the greatest protection to the girls.

Another "son," at Peoria, Ill., Madame has also visited but Mr. Cavette is her favorite "son." Her faith in his success is more than that of an adopted son. She delights in rehearsing the meeting with him and his chum at the seashore while the two men were on a week's leave—daily picnics with Madame's daughters and the two Americans, riding along the beach on bicycles for no automobiles could be used, the government requesting the people to save petroleum.

Madame Chouliou is a beautiful matron not at all foreign in appearance. Her hair is wavy and brown, dressed simply. Her eyes are a friendly blue and she possesses a clear pink and white complexion. Chatting at the Grand hotel yesterday, using her forte to better accent her frequent "most lovely" and "such beautiful" she is indeed an attractive gracious woman, a lily of the East.

So says a friend of ours named Velvet Joe. And he just about hits the nail on the head.

Velvet is made for men who think there's no smoke like real tobacco. If you are that sort of man, listen:

Velvet was born in old Kentucky, where more than one good thing comes from. It was raised as carefully as any other Kentucky thoroughbred. But the real secret of Velvet's friendly qualities is its slow natural ageing in wooden hogsheads. Ageing in the wood never hurt anything—and least of all, tobacco.

And so we say, Velvet is good tobacco—nothing more or less. It runs second to none.

The picture of the pipe on the tin needn't keep you from rolling a jim-dandy cigarette with Velvet.

INTRODUCING DAVID LAWRENCE.

The Gazette has added another splendid feature to the news pages. Arrangements have been made by David Lawrence, recognized as one of the most brilliant of Washington correspondents, has been added to the staff of the paper. Daily, the copyrighted telegrams from Washington and elsewhere, from the pen of this keen analyst of men and measures, will appear in the Gazette. It may be that we will not always agree with Mr. Lawrence, but we will all be intensely interested. Mr. Lawrence is never tiresome. To follow him is to get a thoroughly independent view of the political and legislative conditions at the national capital. Mr. Lawrence will also be at both the great national conventions for the Gazette.

This will insure reports of these paramourly important events being fully covered.

Gazette readers will find in their paper the same correspondence from the pen of Mr. Lawrence as is featured in the largest metropolitan newspapers of the country.

NATIONAL GUARD FOR TRAINING.

The action of the council last night in appropriating $400 for the Janesville company of the National Guard of Wisconsin will meet with general public approval. The company should be given the support of the public as a part of the preparedness measures which the great war taught us we should have. It does not appear that the policy of universal military training will be adopted by the present congress, at least not at the present session. One reason which seems to have impressed congress most is the great expense. Every effort is being made to reduce appropriations. Members of the committee on appropriations are of the opinion that $700,000,000 needed for the universal program will be too much to spend in the face of financial conditions. National Guard units will do a greater part of the work laid out for the universal training plan and accomplish much that is expected from the organization of camps.

The national guard, properly organized and supported, is in many ways far better than the scheme of universal training. Camp life has its dangers. The camp discipline strict and rigid at times is really most needed in the hours of relaxation. There is better opportunity for youth of Janesville and Rock county right in the ranks of the Fifteenth separate company than in going to any camp to which they may be called later by the training law. Parents may feel comfortably assured that their sons will meet with no more than the ordinary temptations of their home city when members of the guard company. The physical value to the youth is of importance. There is the moral restraint of companionship with neighbors. In the yearly camp the program is for efficiency and good citizenship.

We believe that if parents understood that membership in the National Guard exempted their sons from camp training which will be provided under the universal training law and that the guardsmen receive pay for drills and for camp duty as well, there would be no hesitation about allowing the boys to join.

Eventually with a completed company, fully equipped, the attention of the state to the needs of the city for an army will be emphasized. Such a building erected jointly by the state and the city might perform the double service of auditorium and armory.

THE RAIL BILL.

Shorn of all the verbiage and reduced to its lowest terms the Cummins-Esch bill, now in the hands of the president for signature or veto, simply means that the United States is carrying out its agreement when it took over the railroads of the country, to return them to the private owners.

This experiment in government ownership has not been a great success. It has cost the taxpayers of the nation $1,250,000,000. It will cost close to $900,000 to return them under the agreement.

It would be an impossible task to frame a measure that would please all interests. There are two quite misleading ideas about the bill. One is that the government guarantees income. Instead, the government does not obligate itself to pay any money out of the treasury; it does provide that the inter-state commerce commission shall fix rates sufficient to yield a net operating income on the true value of the property. That does not mean on any water in the capital stock of the railroad either. The burden of the weaker roads must be borne by the stronger for a time also.

Then there is the labor situation. This is not so easy to adjust. There are as many difficulties within the ranks of the different sections of labor as to increase in wages and handling of the situation as there are divisions of labor. We look for no great strike. There may be a small one here and there, but we are of the opinion that organized as they are the railroads will go back to their owners without any disturbance whatever.

THE GREATER PART.
The rain comes pelted down, and then
The sun begins to shine again;
One day misfortune comes along,
The next we sing a cheerful song;
But when it all is understood,
The greater part of life is good.

What if today we're deep in woe?
Tomorrow all our cares may go;
Today as failures we come in,
Tomorrow we may fight and win;
And when the sum of life we add,
The good we'll find exceeds the bad.

There's more of sunshine than of rain,
There's more of pleasure than of pain;
Throughout each mortal's span of years
There's more of laughter than of tears,
And seldom God sends down a care
That is too much for man to bear.

So let's be brave in grief or pain,
And wait till skies grow blue again;
Let's live our hours of darkness through
Until the sun shall shine anew,
And keep our faith, whatever befall,
That good is written through it all.

animal endowed with more than average sense. And then there are feists, curs, yellow-dogs, lap-dogs, sheep-killing dogs, hound dogs, Champ Clark's celebrated dog that the public was sadly obliged to "stop kidnaping" round, and to which Mr. Wilson paid no attention, tramp dogs and dogs that seem to be fit only for reducing the visible supply of food.

Millions of dollars worth of sheep have been killed every year by dogs. Every time you buy a suit of clothes you pay a part of the penalty for this murder of sheep. Wisconsin is a hope of the sheep raiser. And in order to raise sheep the dog must be controlled. The last legislature recognized this fact and passed the drastic dog law. If the family dog is worth having he is worth paying a proper tax to preserve inviolate as property. Otherwise he goes to the scrap heap. Tennessee used to be a great sheep raising state. But when it came to a choice between the con dog and the sheep the legislature decided in favor of the dog. Wisconsin will profit by this example. We may have less dogs but we will have more sheep.

Cuba may be refusing to send us sugar for fear it will all be needed to mix the American cocktail, now the chief article of Cuban domestic commerce.

Eight Hours for Women

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN, Director

Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau,
Washington, D. C.

New York, Feb. 25.—An interesting and important question, the eight-hour day for women workers, is being discussed in New York. It is between the women voters who are striving for the eight-hour day for workers and their sex in the State. The Women's Equal Opportunity league, which declares that it doesn't want a break fast.

Twice the question of the eight-hour day has been discussed in the legislature at Albany, and twice it has been easily vanquished by unsympathetic assemblymen, who are greatly assisted in their task by the eloquent opposition of the champions of equal opportunity. Now the same bill, having been patiently reintroduced, is soon to come up for consideration, and consequently each feminist faction is once more preparing for a brisk fight.

Those who are backing this legislation represent some of the most powerful women's organizations of the state, including the New York Women's Trade Union league, the Consumer's league, the New York State League of Women Voters, the Young Women's Christian association, and the New York League of Women Workers. They believe that the eight-hour day is essential to the health and efficiency of the woman worker, and they have announced that they will keep on taking old members of the legislature until they get it. For what else should women use the ballot, they ask you, if not to obtain beneficial legislation for women?

The members of the Equal Opportunity league, on the other hand, are professional women, assert that the purpose of the bill is to remove rather than to increase the burden upon women. They believe that every industrial channel open to men should be open to women, that if a man is willing to work in a factory, he should be able to work in a factory, and if a woman is willing to work in a factory, she should be able to work in a factory. They believe that the eight-hour day is a mere ploy to keep women out of the factory, and they are willing to work 12 hours a day, if it means that they can get on their feet and support their families.

Women workers are not protected from the state," declared a member of the league, in addressing a meeting of working women yesterday. "The state is not going to compete with men on an equal basis. Laws protecting women workers place intolerable restrictions upon them, and they are thrown out of work. Firms cannot be expected to employ women to work for eight hours when the men can get men to work nine or ten, and thus women are unjustly hampered in their competition for jobs." When this assemblyman's speech was submitted to the Women's Trade Union league here, which contains few society women, it produced a tolerant smile. It was the same kind of a smile that used to travel around after the various suffrage headquarters after a particularly clumsy onslaught of the anti-suffragists.

Women Workers Increased.
"Since 1913," said Miss Rose Schneiderman, president of the league, "New York has had a statute limiting the working day of women employed in certain industries to nine hours, yet the enactment of this law seemed to have no effect. There was no such limitation placed upon them, did not result in the laying off of large numbers of women. On the contrary, the demand for them has increased. There are now 200,000 more women in these industries than there were then."

Miss Schneiderman, who is one of our greatest authorities on women in industry, went on to say that, as a matter of fact, the competition between men and women for jobs, on which the League of Equal Opportunity places so great an emphasis, actually does not exist. During the war, she said, there was much talk concerning the equal efficiency of the woman worker, but this was because the labor shortage was so great that many employers were compelled to accept women in the place of men. But in the absence of men, under normal conditions, experience has shown that when an employer can take his choice of a man or woman worker at the same wage, he takes a man. Miss Schneiderman does not apply this state of affairs. She thinks it most regrettable, but none the less true.

The labor shortage resulting from the war, she says, enabled women to take a step upward in industry. It was not a step gained in open competition with men, because men had given up certain places for others carrying higher pay. Women were taken on as street car conductors, because men who had formerly manned the street cars found better jobs or joined the army, but as soon as they applied for reinstatement on the cars they were fired.

Professionals Not Affected.
"The eight-hour bill we are trying to get through affects only women employed in factories and mercantile establishments," Miss Schneiderman concluded, "and not professional women, who are to constitute the majority of the membership of the Equal Opportunity league, and who are exhibiting an amazing ignorance of the conditions of women in industry."

The advocates of the eight-hour day declare that the strain of the speed and the monotony of piece work demand shorter hours. The constant concentration of the mind upon work, they say, when the laborer worked by hand she could relax at times; now she must work while the machine works. Human muscle and nerve cannot compete with steel unless it has time to recuperate.

It is further pointed out that the modern organization of industry divides labor more and more into repetitions of single processes, so that a 12-hour day is a day of monotony, and that 12 people in the making of one shirt; 27 on one vest, and 60 people in the making of one shirt. One shirt makes one blouse, and one blouse makes one suit. One girl dips 720 pieces of chocolate every hour. One girl packs 240 pounds of candy every day. One girl pastes one thousand paper boxes every day.

The speed of machinery is constantly being increased by modern inventive genius. Every improvement in the machine must be matched with greater speed. The worker is not to be able to keep up with the machine. Formerly attended two looms they are now expected to tend 12 or 15. In canneries, women are expected to can from 54 to 80 cans every minute. Girls in the sewing trades sit for long hours in a room rearing machinery, watching a machine that carries 2 needles, or one that sets 4,000 stitches a minute. When work is carried on at such speed, mental fatigue, nervousness, and accidents.

Reflections on Next Generation.
"With 12-hour days the child has been injured by long hours, not only is the working efficiency of the community impaired, but the deterioration is handed down to succeeding generations."

ST. PAUL MAN HAS GAINED 20 POUNDS

"I have gained twenty pounds in weight since taking Tanlac and not in years have I enjoyed such fine health generally," was the statement made the other day by John Terrien, who lives at 624 St. Peter street, St. Paul, Minn.

"It was six years ago that my health broke down," continued Mr. Terrien, "and since that time I have suffered until I was nearly a wreck. My appetite was so poor that for the past several years I could not break my fast with a glass of milk and a little hot water and I could eat little or nothing at other meals. The pains in my stomach were so severe they almost drew the double and the only way I could get relief was to bend down over a chair. I could not sleep at night. I was troubled with indigestion, feeling that continued for hours. I was troubled with a great deal of heartburn and many a night I was in such agony that I had to get up and walk the floor. I was so nervous I would jump at the least unexpected noise and finally I quite drinking tea and coffee altogether as I thought that was partly to blame for my extreme nervousness, but it did no good. I had to continually be taking laxatives as I was badly constipated. My mind was restless and broken and I was so weak and run down I can hardly understand how I held up so long under the strain."

"I started reading about Tanlac in the papers and finally I made up my mind to try it. I got up in the morning, took a bottle of Tanlac, and my troubles and the way I improved was remarkable. And today, my recovery has been so complete that it seems almost too good to be true. My digestion was never better in all my life and I don't have to worry over what I can eat because everything agrees with me perfectly. The gas and pains have all disappeared and I am no longer bothered with heartburn. My nerves are steady and normal and I sleep like a log every night. I got up in the morning ready for a hearty breakfast and go off to my work feeling fine. I am no longer constipated; in fact, I am never bothered in any way whatever now. Just the other day I weighed and I tipped the scales at one hundred and forty pounds, just twenty pounds heavier than I was two months ago."

Tanlac is sold in Janesville by all leading druggists.

TRUE UNANIMOUSLY ELECTED TEMPORARY BUILDING INSPECTOR

James True was unanimously elected temporary city building inspector by the council at its adjourned regular meeting last evening after a division had been made by passage of an ordinance to the effect that a man might be chosen to fill the position until one could be secured permanently.

Mr. True was alderman from the second ward until several months ago when he resigned upon changing his residence to the Third ward. He will receive compensation proportionate with the $2,000 annual salary provided for the office, entering upon his work at once.

Arrangements were completed yesterday for the holding of another examination of applicants for the position. The date was set for March 19 at 1:30 p. m. and the place, the city hall. It was felt this should give ample time for all desiring to obtain the job to prepare for the examination.

It was Ald. Emil Fautz's talk emphasizing the paramount need of a man in the position at once which led the council to name a temporary officer. Mr. True has had many years of experience in the building business.

Each member of the council was urged by Mayor Welsh to institute a search for the permanent need of a man who might be interested in the new position. It is hoped to have more than three write in the occasion when the first test was given by the state building inspector here.

FARM BUREAU SEEKS LARGER MEMBERSHIP

The Rock County Farm Bureau is holding a meeting of directors held in the court house. George Hull, president, took his chair before 25 directors from all sections of Rock county, outlining things of interest to the bureau, the public health nurse, and agricultural agent.

The constitution adopted provides a $10 fee for membership, officers being elected for one year, the annual meeting to be held on the first Thursday of February. The board of directors and officers will hold responsible for the management.

The purpose of the organization is to promote better farming, "help the other fellow", and encourage marketing.

The association, being the largest and most advanced of the three in this state, plans to do something different for the farmer.

A prize of $15 will be given to any one of the association who gives the best made mark and $10 for the best slogan.

Five members were elected for the executive board which will hold office a month.

NEED OF ADDITIONAL BOYS' CAMPS URGENT

That the men of a community should shoulder the responsibility of leading groups of boys in their activities was the thought expressed by J. R. Jensen, chairman of the boys' welfare committee, at the luncheon of the Rotary club at the Myers hotel today.

J. A. Steiner, Y. M. C. A. secretary, told of the summer camps for boys at Phantom Boulder lakes. He recommended a plan for boys' activities which would be more comprehensive, requiring the assistance of men in its execution.

The international Rotary convention of the fifteenth district will be held April 13 and 14 at Wausau. J. R. Jensen will act as leader for the March meetings.

CUT-OFF CITY MAN INFLUENZA VICTIM

Evansville, Feb. 25.—Lee Muns, 41, died of influenza at his home at 8 o'clock this morning. He came from Lambert, Mont., where his family had lived for four years, having been in Evansville only three months. He leaves to mourn his death a wife and three children, Lydia Clithfield Pauline, 11; Howard, 8, and Lawrence, 4.

WELSH, PROMINENT RAILROAD BRIDGE BUILDER, IS DEAD

The death of John Welsh, pioneer resident of Janesville and a pensioned employee of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad, occurred at his residence in the Third ward. He was 75 years of age on January 22.

Surviving are his widow, six daughters, and one son: Mrs. Bernard Turley, Blue Island, Ill.; Mrs. Anna Brown and Mrs. Harry Lewis, both of Chicago; Mrs. Maurice Leahy, Des Moines, Ill.; Mrs. Frank Decker and Miss Irene and Edward of Janesville; and 18 grandchildren.

The funeral will be held from St. Patrick's Catholic church, definite arrangements of which will be announced Thursday.

Beginning work as a stone-cutter for the Northwestern railroad in 1877, Mr. Welsh remained in the employ of the company for a period of 40 years, when he was retired with pension.

Mr. Welsh acted in the capacity of bridge foreman. Monuments of his work are scattered throughout Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, and Illinois. One of his largest works is the stone and steel structure over Rock river at Sterling, Ill.

His bridge best known to Janesville and the vicinity are the Evansville cut-off extension on the North River street viaduct, the huge arch bridge four miles out on the cemetery road, and the span under which the interurban passes two miles south of the city.

As a railway employee, Mr. Welsh had a reliable record. He was never off duty except at times when adverse weather induced construction; never had an accident through his service and most important, in the eyes of his employers, never delayed a train more than five minutes.

With his work, his business methods in the construction of the four-mile cut-off on the Evansville extension demonstrated to his company that he could build a bridge at a vast saving over contracting to private concerns with the result that Mr. Welsh was considered one of the important pieces of work. During the last year of service with the Northwestern, Mr. Welsh served as an inspector at the Fox River bridge, south of Green Bay, a mile long structure, after several of the center piers fell when the structure was ready to be opened. Under his direction reconstruction was rushed.

Mr. Welsh was of Irish parentage, being born in that country, Jan. 25, 1841. He came to America at the age of eight and lived with his parents in Indiana until 1864 when he came to Janesville. He had resided here since that time.

Three years ago, Jan. 25, 1916, Mr. and Mrs. Welsh observed their golden wedding anniversary.

THIS MAN EVIDENTLY DIDN'T LIKE SPOUSE

In procuring divorce yesterday from Charles H. Ballard, 40, a farmer of Waukesha, Adell H. Ballard, 23, Evansville, was also granted a $6,000 division in his estate, which Ballard paid. The action was brought up in the circuit court here before Judge George Griffin.

Suit was based on grounds of cruelty. For two years, the woman asserted, her husband refused to let her except to her anger. She separated from him in March 1918. The decree gave the woman the custody of her 12-year-old son Eugene, and alimony of $20 monthly on and after March 1. They were married at Evansville in 1905.

James Palmer, 22, a laborer of Janesville, received a divorce from Adah Palmer, 20, on grounds of desertion. They were married here in August, 1917. She left him in December of that year.

BARGAIN HUNTERS CROWD STORES IN BIG DOLLAR RUSH

"Dinner-a-dollar a ten o'clock snapper" was entirely out of luck this morning for the most attractive bargains of dollar day were picked up at once by the early birds who entrenched themselves at the doors of the stores demanding an entrance before 8 o'clock.

Janesville housewives and not a few men have survived one of the maddest, merriest of dollar days every put on by local merchants.

Every train brought hosts of shoppers who, piqued at their delay, attacked the business of buying with vigor to the fray, and the wind played havoc with the many sized bundles, tugging and pulling, skirts trying to wrench the little babies away from mother's grasp.

Babies in bundles were crowded from their seats by some customers. These bundles which just seemed to fit in along side of them. Newcomers adjusted themselves to Janesville's popular institution, with the stores were principally of inquiry on the quality of the goods.

"Does that suit you?" "No, you couldn't possibly get better value, I bought this before the price went up that's why I can't buy it." "Don't buy that, Mrs. Bargain Hunter till you see what they have over at—"

But when they got over at—well, here these challenges rang widely. "When the first prospect was also picked up."

Nell met Mayme and discovered that the whole family had had the "flu" and that Will's folks were going to sell out and move into town and the Vicksburgs ordered the shoppers not to congregate in the aisles and Nell never did get to know about the winners.

ASSESSMENTS FOR BRICK PAVING OF 11 BLOCKS $75,000

Paving with brick of 11 blocks of important streets in the downtown district will cost approximately $75,000 according to assessments against the city and property owners affected. There was no protest against assessments which were made on a basis of $3 per square yard with deductions made for previous assessments.

Of this amount, tax-payers on the streets to be improved will pay $25,000 which includes paving of the Corn Exchange and several intersections.

For paving West Milwaukee street, from Academy to the railroad tracks, and Center avenue, from that point to Center street, $19,430.34 from 19 property owners and the balance of $14,043.77 from the city.

Assessments for paving Pleasant street, from Franklin to Court street bridge, and Franklin, from Pleasant to West Bluff, will total $6,000; $18,000 from the city and $6,933.31 from 32 property owners.

For paving North First street a total of $5,538.32; $1,643.32 from the city and $3,895.00 from nine property owners.

DEMOCRAT SENATORS ARE IN SERIOUS FIX

But the democrats are not altogether sure what President Wilson would do if they did surrender. Suppose they were to do so, he decided that the Lodge reservations nullified the purposes of the league and rendered it unworkable and that he would not permit his signature to go on the document as constructing the senate's reservations to mean ratification.

Where would it leave the democrats in the next campaign who had refused to stand with the president? And where would it leave the democratic campaign orators who might want to point to the republican opponents as the true destroyers of the treaty when a large number of democrats could be promptly exhibited as having supported the republican program?

WAITS 21 YEARS TO SEEK DIVORCE

Twenty-one years after her husband, Irving DeForest, whereabouts unknown, deserted her leaving her with a young child, Mrs. Margaret DeForest, Beloit, seeks divorce in the circuit court here. She asserts that immediately after their marriage in Beloit on March 18, 1899, he immediately left her. The daughter is now married.

Also on desertion grounds, Mrs. Lydia L. M. Barnett, this city, asks divorce from Elaine M. Barnett, whom she married at Baraboo in 1912. In 1912, while she was visiting her mother in Sauk county she found her husband sold the household furniture and disappeared. They were then residing in Beloit. Efforts since to locate him have failed. A seven-year old son is with the mother of the plaintiff.

Owners Praise It For Its Comfort

The delightful comfort with which five adult persons ride in the Cleveland Six touring car has appealed to buyers everywhere. The wide, soft-cushion seats, upholstered in genuine hand-buffed plaited leather, are cozy as cozy can be. And the low underslung spring construction, a feature of the Cleveland Six chassis, subdues the road-shock long before it can reach the cushions.

Many unusual qualities such as these are fast winning friends for the Cleveland Six. Among light weight sixes it stands out distinctly.

At all the principal automobile shows this season it has attracted extraordinary crowds. Men of mechanical interests and men experienced in the use of motor cars have been generous in their expression of approval and admiration for the entire design and construction of the Cleveland Six chassis. The several beautiful styles of body, mounted on this one chassis, have met with praise from men and women alike.

When you see or drive the Cleveland Six, you want it.

Crooked Trails and Straight

By William MacLeod Raine
Copyright, by G. W. Dillingham Company

Kate cooked a meal and the convict ate. The girl was tired and anxious to care for food, but she made her meal a little. They packed the saddlebags with bacon, beans, coffee, and flour. Blackwell tightened again the cinches and once more the two took the trail.

They made camp in a pocket opening from a gulch far up in the hills. With her back to the hill, she reined her horse behind her and tied the girl secured to the twisted trunk of a Joshua tree. To make sure of her he lay on the road back hands clutched to the side. In five minutes he was asleep, but it was long before Kate could escape from wakefulness. At last she fell into troubled slumbers.

From one of those she awoke to see that the morning light was shining through the darkness. She was shivering with the chill of an Arizona mountain night. Turning her body, the girl's eye fell upon her captor. His face was a study in gloom. He had no decent man looked at a woman. Her impulse was to scream, to struggle to her feet and run. But what was the use? What was he going to do?

But something warned her this would precipitate the danger. She called upon her courage and tried to call the convict to her. She was somehow she succeeded. A scornful, confident smile flashed from her eyes into his. It told him that for his life he dared to lay a finger upon her in the way of harm. And he knew it was true, knew that if he gave way to his desire no hold under him would be deep enough to hold him from the vengeance of her friends.

He got suddenly to his feet. "Come. We'll be going."

Within the hour they saw some of his hunters. A wisp of smoke rose from the basin below. Grouped about it were three men eating breakfast.

"Don't make a sound," warned Blackwell.

His rifle covered her. With all her soul she longed to cry for help. But she dared not take the risk. Even as the two on the edge of the bowl withdrew from sight one of the campers rose and walked to a little grove where the ponies were tethered. The distance was too far to make sure, but something in the gait made the girl sure that the man was Curly. Her hands went out to him in a piteous little gesture of appeal.

She was right. It was Curly. He was thinking of her at that moment despairingly, but no bell of warning rang within to tell him she was so near. He made the girl sure that the man was Curly. Her hands went out to him in a piteous little gesture of appeal.

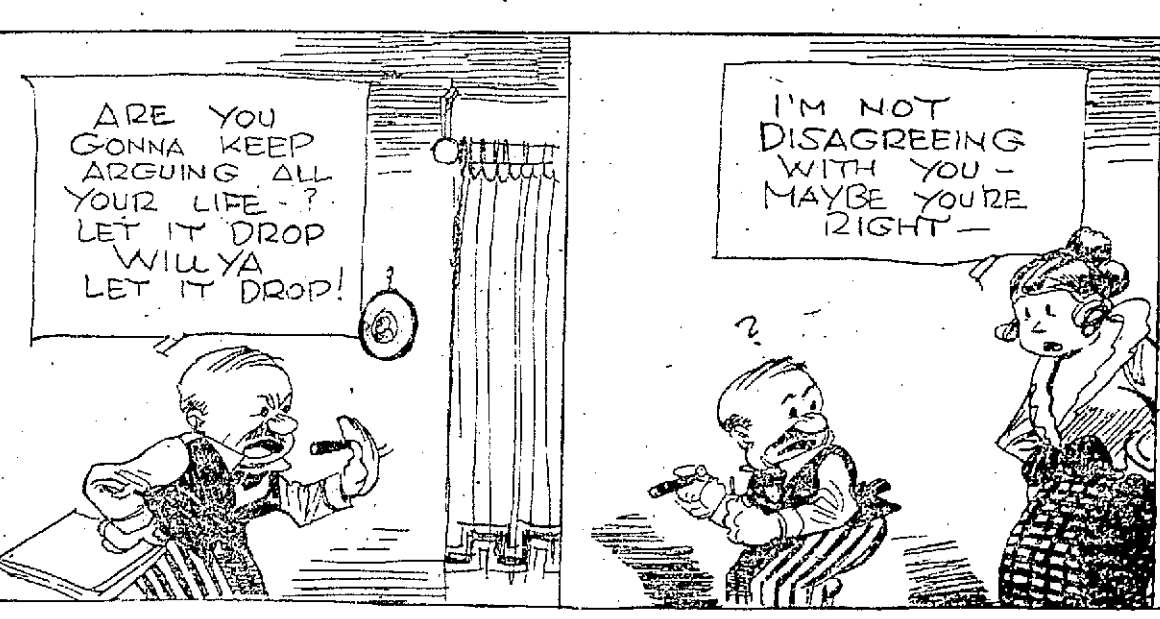

Twice during the morning did the refugee attempt to slip down into the parched desert that stretched toward Sonoran safety. But the cordon set about him was drawn too close. Each time a loose-seated rider lounging in the saddle with a rifle in his hand drove them back. The second attempt was almost disastrous, for the convict was seen. The hum of a bullet whistled past his ears and he and his prisoner drew back into the chaparral and from thence won back to cover.

Kate, drooping with fatigue, saw that fear rode Blackwell heavily. He was sure he knew that the Arizona code his life was forfeit and would be exacted of him should he be taken. He had not the hardihood to stand it out in silence, he whined complaints, promises and threats. He tried to curry favor with her, to work upon her pity, even when she turned him down. He knew that he was wondering whether he would have a better chance if he sacrificed her life.

Curly came to her, from rock-cover to pine-clad hillside. He was driven in his attempts to break the narrowing circle of grim hunters that surrounded him with such failure, with every passing hour, the terror in him mounted. He would have welcomed life imprisonment, that would save the worthless life that would soon be snuffed out unless he could evade his hunters till through the line.

WHEN A MAN'S MARRIED

BILLY WHISKERS

By FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

When Billy Whiskers saw the other he got he stopped to look at him, and the other goat stopped to look back. Billy knew the sign for wind and was going to make him, and he went for the goat intending to butt him out of the door. But instead of his head feeling the soft side of the goat he hit something hard which broke in a thousand pieces, cutting his head and making the blood flow down his face. When Nanny saw Billy knew he had been cooled again and had butted his own image in a mirror and that there had been no goat there.

The crash brought the ladies from the dining room, headed by Mrs. Windlass, but when they got to the foot of the stairs to come up they saw a large white goat standing at the top with blood flowing down his whiskers. The sight of the blood as much as the goat made one lady faint and all the others ran in different directions, while Billy scurried down and out of the house.

He was making for the pasture again as fast as he could when he met a big turkey cock, which spread his tail and swelled himself out, intending to keep Billy from passing, but when Billy came up to him he quietly looked him on top of the head, where he left him with all the pride knocked out of him and his feathers drooping.

Billy kept right on and was soon in the pasture. When Nanny saw her Billy all bloody she commenced to cry and wanted to know who had shot him. Billy told her he had not been shot and that he had only cut his head a little on a piece of broken glass. This explanation satisfied Nanny and she asked no questions. Naturally Billy did not explain how he had hooked his own image. Billy walked over to the little stream that flowed through the pasture and let the water run over his head and face and soon all trace of blood was washed away, and when the farmer looked them over that night to find the goat with the bloody face, that his wife had told him had done all the mischief, he could find none, so he took it for granted that some stray goat had come in and done all the damage, and once again Billy got off without being punished for his misdeeds. (Tomorrow Billy gets a great surprise.)

THE ARMY
By E. S. Alexander.
Hunting Eye was happy. He had again met his friend of the summer, the Captain, who had hunted in the North Woods. And the Captain was taking him to see the great army camp in which he was stationed.

"Who runs the army?" he asked.

"The War Department," the President answered. "He appoints all the officers in the army, and he is responsible for the manner in which it is run. He is the Chief of the War Department. This Department carries out the policies of the President."

"It does not have power to vote money for military affairs," the President said. "But the Department makes recommendations as to how much money is needed by the army, and these recommendations are sent to Congress. When it comes to decide how much money to vote, the Department has control of the money. The commissioned officers from the commanding general down to the junior sergeant, lieutenant."

"Can't a city have an army?"

"No," the states have what amounts to one. Most of the states maintain a body of troops called the state militia or national guard. These men do not make a life business of soldiering but merely do a certain amount of training each year. The state militia is controlled by the state government and made up of men who devote only a part of their time to military affairs.

"I don't like to see what Mollie Price Cook has to say about Leap Year."

BETTER THAN CALOMEL
Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Are a Harmless Substitute

No pains, no griping, no injury to the gums, no danger from acid foods—yet they stimulate the liver and bowels. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "lumpy" and "heavy." Note how they clear clouded brain and perk up the spirits. 10c and 25c a box.
